CORPORATE AND INSTITUTIONAL OUTREACH REPORT

1. Introduction

As part of Epahubb Consult's business development and customer acquisition activities, I undertook an outreach exercise targeting schools, private businesses, hospitality establishments and other organizations.

The main objective was to introduce Epahubb Consult, explain its digital solutions and services, understand the challenges organizations face and identify opportunities for possible business engagements and partnerships.

2. Outreach Activities

A total of 40 organizations were included in the outreach exercise. This included 20 face-to-face engagements, alongside additional telephone outreach.

During the visits and calls, I made efforts to reach owners, headmasters, managers and other relevant representatives. The discussions focused on identifying areas where Epahubb's services could be useful.

Some organizations already had existing systems and were not interested in switching, while others were open to further discussions or requested another meeting to understand the solutions better.

3. Key Engagement Outcomes

The outreach produced a number of promising opportunities.

Educational institutions

Schools emerged as one of the most promising markets. Lighthouse Preparatory School expressed interest in an integrated school management solution that also handles payments. Marthin Luther Complex requested a system demonstration involving the headmaster and teachers.

Saint Paul's International School also expressed interest, while Emmanuel Presby Academy requested a return visit when the headmaster would be available. Belge Hopeland Educational Complex indicated that the headmaster needed to consult the proprietor before proceeding.

Other schools, including Living Foundation International School, already had systems in place but were open to possible discussions at a later stage.

Private businesses

Anagen Haircare showed interest in establishing an online presence. Although a dedicated e-commerce website was initially discussed, the cost was a concern. I therefore proposed Kromonline, Epahubb's e-commerce platform, where sellers can register and sell without paying a registration fee.

Boyos Bite Restaurant also showed interest, with the assistant manager indicating that he would discuss the opportunity with the manager. Next Level Beauty Salon expressed interest in further discussions.

G's Sip and Bite was interested in expanding online but indicated that finances were currently a limitation.

Other engagements

Frimpong Laundry presented a potential collaboration opportunity, as the owner expressed interest in working together and also has an IT background.

Maggiefrimps Company Limited, where I previously completed my internship, was also contacted. However, the IT head explained that the company already uses inventory systems provided through Guinness and that management was not looking to acquire another system.

Several other businesses were not interested, mainly because they already had their own technical support or were not ready to invest in new solutions.

4. Prospects for Further Discussions

The organizations identified as particularly promising include:

1. Lighthouse Preparatory School
2. Saint Paul's International School
3. Marthin Luther Complex
4. Emmanuel Presby Academy
5. Belge Hopeland Educational Complex
6. Royal Nicky's Academy
7. Boyos Bite Restaurant
8. Anagen Haircare

These organizations either expressed interest, requested further engagement or presented opportunities that require additional discussions.

5. Follow-up Plan

The following follow-up dates were recorded during the outreach exercise:

Organization	Planned follow-up
Marthin Luther Complex	10 November 2026

Living Foundation International School	15 December 2026

These dates represent the proposed or agreed return visits and follow-ups recorded during the exercise, rather than confirmed appointments in every case.

6. Challenges and Observations

One of the main challenges was reaching organizations that genuinely needed technical support. Many businesses already had existing systems, and convincing them to switch to a different solution was difficult.

Transport was another challenge, as moving from one organization to another required considerable time and money.

From the exercise, I observed that educational institutions present a stronger opportunity for Epahubb Consult, particularly with Epasmart. I recommend placing more attention on schools, arranging demonstrations and focusing on the specific challenges they face rather than simply introducing software products.

7. Conclusion

The outreach exercise provided an opportunity to introduce Epahubb Consult to potential customers and understand the needs of different organizations.

Although not every organization expressed interest, several useful opportunities were identified, particularly among schools and selected private businesses.

The immediate priority should be to follow up with interested prospects, conduct the requested demonstrations and continue building relationships that could develop into actual business engagements for Epahubb Consult.
